$2.50 A YEAR

The Glades And Its Affairs

This is the time of year when the matter of highest interest and the subject of general conversation is beans. All right, then, we talk about beans. There is a fact about the bean situation that is worth while to call attention, and this is that the increased production has not glutted the market even if it is a time of nation-wide depression, for now in November beans are selling at a better price than they sold in other years on a smaller movement. The meaning of this should not be overlooked, for the short-sighted and selfish grower who wants a short crop and who thinks their beans and their land will be worth more money if all the bean land except theirs is overflooded by the lake or taken up by the sugar company. A short bean crop in the Everglades is more likely to raise the price than big acreage and heavy production is likely to do.

How useful a cooperative marketing association may be to sugar industry in southern section of the country. The Everglades News has no opinion—that is the business of the people of other news in the other sections and is none of our business—but it is demonstrated that the organization of a government-regulated association of upper Glades region's beans are being marketed satisfactorily.

Beans grown in the adjacent state of New Jersey are being trucked into Philadelphia and sold at 85 cents per bushel. The price of beans from the Everglades is now 50 cents and per acre as 10 cents a bushel. Everglades beans sold in competition with New Jersey beans and brought up to $2 a bushel hamper. The price range on beans from the Everglades was 25 cents to $1 a 5-bushel hamper. These quotations are not on a regular market report made by J. Earle Roberts, Philadelphia commission merchant. This is a tribute to the "varying quality" of Everglades beans and to the service rendered by the refrigeration company and the railroad companies.

Steady increase in the number of tractors owned by farmers in the Lake Okeechobee region is an evidence that their operations are profitable enough to provide them with capital for equipping their farms with proper machinery for the future as well as for the present, an evidence of their intention to stay here, which is a guarantee of permanence, and an evidence that the proceeds of the profitable industry are being reinvested in this form of investment instead of being wasted in expenditures for unnecessary things. A tractor of certain type costs $1,750, which is a sizeable sum of money. Under the influence of drainage, the ground is level and compacted and hard plows and similar light tools no longer suffice to turn the soil, and the depth, necessitating the use of the greater power the tractors give.

There is impatience at the length of time it is taking to bring about the building of new houses, but the explanation of the matter is that money made from growing vegetables is being paid for land and for farm tools as well as for living expenses and small and unpaid. Dwellings seemed to indicate lack of thrift and lack of desire to build and increase of population. Farmers because of their purchases of automobiles, but it is coming to be better understood that for a farmer an automobile is a tool necessary in his business, and that the tools—the automobiles and trucks and tractors—are being paid for profits from farm operations so in the early future provide capital for better homes, better in appearance and inside equipment.

BOARD PRESENTS A STATEMENT OF DRAINAGE POLICY

Declaration of Methods To Guide General Manager
Senator Young

IS BRIEF IN DEFENSE OF PAST POLICIES

Offered To Justify Employment of Staff of Engineers, Attorneys

What is represented as a "Declaration of Methods of future procedure as a guide for the general public" was issued Tuesday by the office of Everglades drainage district in West Palm Beach following a session of the board.

Daily papers report that the statement was prepared by W. Evans of Miami, board attorney, and F. C. Elliot of Tallahassee, consulting engineer who have been referred to for months as having the preparation of the statement under the supervision of the board.

The report in the Post of Wednesday says "Provision was made for supplementing the policy at the discretion of the board and general manager in event of an emergency of hurricane, breakdown, or other past which aroused criticisms in the Everglades and throughout the country." The policy is to be effective, the board said, from the time of the report, unless modified or altered in the future.

The "purported" policy and declaration of methods is chiefly a defense of the policy of the past which aroused criticisms in the Everglades and throughout the country. The policy is to be effective, the board said, from the time of the report, unless modified or altered in the future.

REVIVED INTEREST OF NON-RESIDENTS

Many persons in the north who own land in the Everglades will spend the winter, or have a winter vacation trip give them opportunity to see their lands and the country surrounding their lands. This is indicated by letters that come to this office from subscribers to The Everglades News.

Typical of statements in letters is this excerpt: "It is now 16 years since I have been down there and as there have been many changes in that time I want to see what has been done." Another asks for information about bus line schedules.

Some of the non-resident owners anticipate early wintering, their taxes but they want to see their tracts before they decide to abandon them.

If the West Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce got from the county tax collector the names and addresses of non-resident owners of Palm Beach county real estate and distributed them, it would be in the federal prison at Atlanta. The tenth grade had their first physical education period last Thursday. The girls had the gymnasium and the boys took the football field.

Dan Padgett was welcomed back to school Monday. As you know he had a streak of "tough luck" and broke his elbow. But he is improving fast, as well as Leon, for they both have all the teachers' and girls' attentions.

Wilma Grimes and Bertram Williams were the only absentees from our class.

Grace Adams.

Morris Tiffin was absent from school during the last days of this week because of illness.

The freshmen class has started practicing for the program. They are supposed to put on for the assembly.

Day after a celebration to Armistice Day all the members of the nine grade sang "The Star Spangled Banner" Tuesday morning.

The freshmen haven't all been got out of the "freshies" yet, as quite a number are having to write a theme or cut grass after school.

PAHOKEE STILL UNBEATEN

By Joe Helms.

Pahokee won a hard fought game from Stuart Friday Nov. 6 by a score of 27 to 6.

After a scoreless first period Pahokee came back with renewed power, and ran over a touchdown the second play after the kickoff.

The first touchdown came as a great surprise when Stuart Spooner, on a line play, broke into the open, and behind good interference ran 60 yards for a touchdown. Joe Parker kicked for the extra point.

Leon Spooner did most of the gaining in the first half and it was a tough break when he was hurt and had to be taken out of the game.

Stuart's touchdown came when their punter got off a nice kick that was downed on Pahokee's 3-yard line. On the next play Pahokee's attempted kick was blocked and Stuart recovered behind the goal for a touchdown.

Near the end of the game Stuart opened up with a passing attack that netted them a few first downs but Pahokee's line kept rushing and Stuart could not work over a touchdown.

On the last play Pugh, Pahokee's left halfback, intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards where he was downed by Stuart's safety man ten yards from the goal.

Pahokee's backfield played well all the time. The forward wall was always alert and charging in to smother and break up plays. The team carried the ball well and broke up many passes.

Pahokee is trying to get a game with Fort Pierce for Friday, Nov. 13, at Pahokee.

SPORT NEWS

Oretta Thompson.

Last week we had a report of Mr. Bishop in connection with a nice. Now we have an entirely different report.

We have a report that Mrs. Colson has been instructing some of the senior boys and girls in catching mice. If she continues this the basketball players will not have to go in training for they will be in the best of physical condition because catching mice is a very strenuous exercise.

Instead of them chasing the rats the rats sometimes chase them.

"I have always heard of dog-catchers, and have never heard of rat-catchers, but Larkin Spooner seems to be the best rat catcher in the senior class."

He usually stands in her chair and gives directions. Joe Helms is the perfect lady when it comes to juggling on a desk. The mention of rats is not to be mentioned. They will discipline all day Wednesday on account of the sad news we just received of Mrs. Colson's death. They will be renewed Thursday.

The occasion for all this was the fact that a mouse got in Mrs. Colson's desk and she and the rat had to be rescued.

Lewis Warren Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Friend, was born in Lamar, Colorado on April 28, 1913. After living in Fellsmere, Fla., from the time he was a year old, until he was four his parents, with him and two older sisters, moved to Pahokee, where Lewis entered school last year. His entire twelve years of school life have been spent here.

He is not participating in athletic activities this year, having "gone out" for football last year, however.

Lewis, better known as "Digger" is a slender, semi-buff, boyish-looking and a good sport. At times he is strangely subdued—especially in the classroom study hall. He finds it extremely funny when his "co-partners in crime" are given names to write.

Laugh on, Digger, who laughs loud and laughs best.
